

Attention: Commercial Driver's License (CDL) Testing Applicants

Fail to show? Starting July 1, 2007 – it'll cost you $50.

"A fee of $50 shall be charged each time an applicant for a commercial driver's license fails to keep a scheduled skills test appointment...." — The Code of Virginia § 46.2-332

If you are unable to keep your scheduled appointment, contact the CDL examiner, at least 24 hours in advance.

- Failure to notify the examiner will result in a $50 no-show fee.
- An invoice for the no-show fee will be mailed.
- No DMV-related transactions will be allowed until the no-show fee is paid.

Get ready for CDL testing...

Remember to....

- Study the CDL Manual.
- Practice backing maneuvers.
- Practice the road test maneuvers with a licensed driver.
- Learn essential parts of a commercial vehicle and be able to state the role of each part.
- Be prepared to describe, in detail, the possible defects or problems for each part during your vehicle pre-trip inspection test.
- Schedule your test by contacting your local CDL examiner.
